Reading books that go in-depth can be a very positive way to assess a situation. The books listed below offer insight on how to help a friend experiencing abuse:

Identifying Abuse

The Verbally Abusive Relationship: How to Recognize It and How to Respond. Learn why verbal abuse is more widespread than ever, how to recognize and deal with it safely, and most important, how to lead a happier, healthier life.

No Visible Wounds: Identifying Non-Physical of Women by Their Men. Does your partner become jealous, prevent you from seeing friends, deny you access to bank accounts, credit cards or the car, call you derogatory names, humiliate you in front of the kids or turn minor incidents into major arguments? If you answer “yes” to any of these questions, chances are you are suffering from non-physical battering, controlling, tyrannical behavior that is domestic violence.
Stop Signs: Recognizing, Avoiding, and Escaping Abusive Relationships. This book familiarizes readers with intimate partner violence and explains how to develop self-esteem, preparation and assertive awareness that can protect them from involvement with abusive individuals. It explores the minds of abusers, explains visible signs of danger in their attitudes and actions, and provides effective strategies for safe extraction when involved with an abuser.

30 Covert Manipulation Tactics: How Manipulators Take Control in Personal Relationships. Learn the manipulator's game so they can't play it with you. Identifying covert manipulation is tricky. This short, but powerful, 33-page book will teach you how to identify the 30 tactics manipulators use to get what they want. You'll also learn to spot that warning signs within yourself that expose covert manipulation is taking place, even if you can't identify the specific tactics being used.

Coercive Control: How Men Entrap Women In Personal Life. Studies show that most abused women seek help because their rights and liberties have been jeopardized, not because they have been injured. The coercive control model resolves three perplexing challenges posed by abuse: why these relationships endure, why abused women develop a profile of problems seen among no other group of assault victims and why the legal system has failed to win them justice.
How to Help

To Be an Anchor In the Storm: A Guide for Friends and Family of Abused Women. The author, herself a survivor, teaches how to recognize the signs of abuse, handle negative feelings, become an effective advocate, deal with the batterer, and distinguish between being an anchor and a rescuer.

Family and Friends’ Guide to Domestic Violence: How to Listen, Talk and Take Action When Someone You Care About is Being Abused: People have many feelings about domestic abuse, especially if it is happening to someone they care about. They feel shock, anger, sadness, frustration. This book helps transform those feelings into compassion, allowing you to experience the emotion and suffering of another. Included are tips on how to listen, talk, and take action.

Scared to Leave, Afraid to Stay: Paths from Family Violence to Safety: This book presents stories of ten women as they fought the courts and their abusers to gain safety for themselves and their children. The author demonstrates how courts handle divorce, custody, visitation, support, child abuse, marital property, orders of protection and crimes when domestic violence erupts. Tactics abusers use to maintain control over their partners are also discussed. Familiarize yourself with this information to better help someone experiencing abuse.
Sometimes lists are easier on the mind because they are uncluttered and poignant. If you’d rather read a few items vs. articles or books, these lists are for you:

There are two well-known, free assessment tools available online that can help you understand the level of danger that may be present, but not always obvious.

The Danger Assessment
The free tool helps determine the level of danger an abused person has of being killed by an intimate partner. There are two parts to the tool: a calendar to keep a record of the frequency of abuse and a 20-item scoring instrument that uses a weighted system to score yes/no responses to risk factors associated with intimate partner homicide.

MOSAIC
Using a series of questions, this tool assesses how similar a situation is to other situations of violence that have gotten worse. After creating a confidential account and answering the questions, a detailed report is compiled immediately telling you how your situation compares to others like it, rating it on a scale of 1 to 10 of how likely it is to escalate.

A lot can be gleaned from people who have been through it before. Check out the following survey results to learn from the experiences of others:

- When you were experiencing abuse, what did someone do that you found most helpful?
- Where did you find the most support while going through abuse?
- As an immigrant survivor of domestic abuse, what challenge did you face in getting help?
- As a teen, did you feel like you had someone you could talk to about dating violence?
Online forums and chat areas can help you connect with others who are in or have faced similar situations, and find support and ideas from the survivor community.

AfterSilence.org aims to help victims become survivors and to communicate in the recovery of domestic and sexual violence. It offers an active message board and chat room for rape, sexual assault, sexual abuse, incest and molestation survivors. There are over 31,000 members and about a million active posts.

The Americans Overseas Domestic Violence Crisis Center. If you’re an American overseas, your situation is different than 99% of your fellow countryman, and this site may be a helpful resource for you. Among the services is a 24-hour response to emails, as well as international phone options.
DomesticShelters.org Facebook Page offers one of the most active places for domestic violence survivors. You’ll find conversation, past experiences and unvarnished stories, and occasionally advice from professionals who have joined in on a topic.

Experience Project works to connect people with similar interests, needs and experience on a massive variety of topics, one of which is domestic violence. You may not run into professionals who can guide you, but sometimes finding people who have had similar experiences or offer words of encouragement is just as helpful.

Fort Refuge is a clever, grassroots site run by survivors for fellow survivors as a safe place to come together and discuss their struggles and victories in healing from various types of abuse. Though the forum and chat do not boast the same numbers as some of the larger organizations, they are one of the more active conversation places on the internet currently. They also add new content to their site regularly.
Love is Respect - National Teen Dating Helpline focuses on teen relationships and can be accessed by phone, text or live chat. It offers real-time, one-on-one support by trained peer advocates who provide information and advocacy to those involved with abusive dating partners. They also offer support to parents, teachers, clergy, law enforcement, and service providers.

National Domestic Violence Hotline offers confidential, private, one-on-one chats with advocates every day from 7 a.m. to 2 a.m. Central Time.

OnYourMind.net is a safe and anonymous place for teens to get information and support from other teens in an online chat room, covering topics such as relationships, school, depression, stress, suicide, parents, cutting, identity and general health.

Pandora’s Aquarium is an online forum with around 2 million posts and over 70,000 members, and is run by Pandora’s Project, which provides information, support and resources to rape and sexual abuse survivors and their friends and family.
YesICAN offers live, scheduled chats and a forum for individuals who wish to discuss issues around surviving child abuse and domestic violence, as well as discuss parenting issues. YesICAN chats are run by trained facilitators and cover various subjects including teen survivors, male survivors, female survivors, physical abuse, emotional abuse, sexual abuse, incest survivors, significant others and parenting.

When accessing hotlines, chats or forums from a computer, tablet, or smartphone, please remember to take the necessary precautions to keep your activities confidential from your abuser. Learn more on protecting personal affects and technology here.

Also, keep in mind that local shelters may offer in-person support groups. You can find nearby shelters at domesticshelters.org.
When a friend confides in you about the abuse they are experiencing, you can connect for free with a domestic violence advocate for advice on how to help.

Visit domesticshelters.org and type either your city and state or ZIP code into the search bar at the top of the page. A list of organizations and contact numbers near you will be displayed. To reach an advocate, call the hotline numbers listed. Most are open 24/7.

To speak to an advocate at the National Domestic Violence Hotline, also available 24 hours a day, seven days a week, call 1-800-799-7233 or visit thehotline.org where a chat service is available 7 a.m. to 2 a.m.

It’s important to know that your call stays confidential and you can always choose to remain anonymous when speaking with an advocate. To know what to expect when calling, read this article.
