Why Do Abusers Abuse?

Understanding why abusers abuse and the indicators of abuse
If you find yourself with an abusive partner, it is not uncommon to wondering: why are they choosing to behave and act as they do?

There is no excuse for domestic violence or abuse. Abuse is one partner exerting control and power over the other. But how can someone who says they love you abuse you? What are some of the different control tactics? Should you hold out any hope an abuser can change?

This toolkit will provide you with these insights and more. Inside you’ll find:

- Helpful Articles
- Recommended Books
- Checklists
- Danger Assessments
- Survey Results
- Toolkits
- Support Communities
- How to Find Help

Remember, there is no justification for an abusive partner.
There are hundreds of articles on DomesticShelters.org covering the many facets of domestic violence. The links here can help you understand the abuser mindset and red flags of inexcusable behavior.

Predictive Indicators of Violence
The facts and figures on domestic violence perpetrators.

Profile of an Abuser
What to be aware of before you get involved.

Abusive Red Flags
Warning signs that your partner could turn violent.

Recognizing Unsafe People
Three types of people that may spell trouble.

Why People Choose to Abuse
There’s no easy way to predict who will become a batterer.

Life with a Psychopath
How psychopaths exert control and why.
What is Domestic Violence?
A look at the five types of domestic violence.

A Deadly Cycle
The 4 stages of abuse that happen over and over.

Survivors Denying Abuse
How abusers trick survivors into denying abuse.

Will It Happen Again?
A look at whether past behaviors can predict abuse.

Abuse Isn’t Caused by Alcohol
Dispelling the myth that abuse is caused by alcohol.

Signs of a Violent Relationship
How to recognize if you’re in an abusive relationship.

Power and Control Wheel
Know the repeated pattern abusive partners follow.

The Excuses We Tell Ourselves
A reminder there’s no justification for an abusive partner.

Abuse Isn’t Due To Mental Illness
Abusers are no more likely to be mentally ill than others.

DV in Affluent Marriages
When abusers exhibit narcissistic entitlement.
10 Patterns of Verbal Abuse
This form of abuse can be harder to recognize than you may think.

Recognizing Emotional Abuse
19 questions to help identify this type of domestic violence.

3 Myths About Survivors
The falsities to stop telling yourself once and for all.

Can Abusers Change?
The 9 signs that an abuser can change.

What is Batterer Counseling?
What this form of counseling addresses and how it works.

Victim of Financial Abuse?
16 questions to help identify this type of domestic violence.

When Abusers Use Sexual Abuse
40% of survivors experience these types of sexual abuse.

Trapped by Your Faith?
When spirituality and domestic violence cross paths.

Is Mutual Abuse Real?
Rarely true, this term is often used as a manipulation tactic.

Does Counseling Work?
We survey survivors' views on whether treatment works.
Reading books that go in-depth can be a very positive way to assess a situation. The books listed below offer insight into why abusers abuse, how they control and what can be done to move ahead.

Why Does He Do That?: Inside the Minds of Angry and Controlling Men. He says he loves you. So...why does he do that? You’ve asked yourself this question again and again. Now you have the chance to see inside the minds of angry and controlling men. You will learn about the early warning signs of abuse, the nature of abusive thinkers, myths about abusers, 10 abusive personality types, the role of drugs and alcohol, and how to get out of an abusive relationship safely.

Coercive Control: How Men Entrap Women in Personal Life. This book breaks through entrenched view of physical abuse that have ultimately failed to protect women. It looks at how domestic violence is neither primarily domestic, nor necessarily violence, but a pattern of controlling behaviors more akin to terrorism and hostage-taking.
Recommended Books

Stop Signs: Recognizing, Avoiding, and Escaping Abusive Relationships. This book familiarizes readers with intimate partner violence and explains how to develop self-esteem, preparation and assertive awareness that can protect them from involvement with abusive individuals. It explores the minds of abusers, explains visible signs of danger in their attitudes and actions, and provides effective strategies for safe extraction when involved with an abuser.

Not To People Like Us: Hidden Abuse in Upscale Marriages. How is it possible for a highly educated woman with a career and resources of her own to stay in a marriage with an abusive husband? How can a man be considered a pillar of his community and regularly give his wife a black eye? The very nature of these questions proves how convinced we are that domestic violence is restricted to the lower classes.

Should I Stay or Should I Go?: A Guide to Knowing if Your Relationship Can—and Should—be Saved. In this supportive and straightforward guide, the authors offer a way for women to practically take stock of their relationships and move forward— with or without their partners. Women will learn how to tell the difference between healthy-yet-difficult relationship and one that is really not working, recognize their partner has a serious problem, and more.
Sometimes lists are easier on the mind because they are uncluttered and poignant. If you’d rather read a few items vs. articles or books, these lists are for you:

- 25 Relationship Red Flags
- 20 Things Abusers Say
- 27 Characteristics of Unsafe People
- 19 Myths About Domestic Violence
There are two well-known, free assessment tools available online that can help you understand the level of danger that may be present, but not always obvious.

The Danger Assessment
The free tool helps determine the level of danger an abused person has of being killed by an intimate partner. There are two parts to the tool: a calendar to keep a record of the frequency of abuse and a 20-item scoring instrument that uses a weighted system to score yes/no responses to risk factors associated with intimate partner homicide.

MOSAIC
Using a series of questions, this tool assesses how similar a situation is to other situations of violence that have gotten worse. After creating a confidential account and answering the questions, a detailed report is compiled immediately telling you how your situation compares to others like it, rating it on a scale of 1 to 10 of how likely it is to escalate.
There are a series of questions many people explore when experiencing abuse. To help get answers, consider viewing these survey results and toolkits:

Surveys

- Which type of abuse did you experience first?
- At what age did you first experience abuse?
- Was your domestic violence experience impacted by holidays?
- Can an abusive partner change after attending batterer’s counseling?
- Did news, politics or current events impact the abuse you experienced?

Toolkits

- Am I Experiencing Abuse?
- I Know Someone Who Is Being Abused, What Should I Do?
- I’m Ready to Leave, Now What?
Online forums and chat areas can help you connect with others who are in or have faced similar situations, and find support and ideas from the survivor community.

AfterSilence.org aims to help victims become survivors and to communicate in the recovery of domestic and sexual violence. It offers an active message board and chat room for rape, sexual assault, sexual abuse, incest and molestation survivors. There are over 31,000 members and about a million active posts.

The Americans Overseas Domestic Violence Crisis Center. If you’re an American overseas, your situation is different than 99% of your fellow countryman, and this site may be a helpful resource for you. Among the services is a 24-hour response to emails, as well as international phone options.
DomesticShelters.org Facebook Page offers one of the most active places for domestic violence survivors. You’ll find conversation, past experiences and unvarnished stories, and occasionally advice from professionals who have joined in on a topic.

Experience Project works to connect people with similar interests, needs and experience on a massive variety of topics, one of which is domestic violence. You may not run into professionals who can guide you, but sometimes finding people who have had similar experiences or offer words of encouragement is just as helpful.

Fort Refuge is a clever, grassroots site run by survivors for fellow survivors as a safe place to come together and discuss their struggles and victories in healing from various types of abuse. Though the forum and chat do not boast the same numbers as some of the larger organizations, they are one of the more active conversation places on the internet currently. They also add new content to their site regularly.
Love is Respect - National Teen Dating Helpline focuses on teen relationships and can be accessed by phone, text or live chat. It offers real-time, one-on-one support by trained peer advocates who provide information and advocacy to those involved with abusive dating partners. They also offer support to parents, teachers, clergy, law enforcement, and service providers.

National Domestic Violence Hotline offers confidential, private, one-on-one chats with advocates every day from 7 a.m. to 2 a.m. Central Time.

OnYourMind.net is a safe and anonymous place for teens to get information and support from other teens in an online chat room, covering topics such as relationships, school, depression, stress, suicide, parents, cutting, identity and general health.

Pandora’s Aquarium is an online forum with around 2 million posts and over 70,000 members, and is run by Pandora’s Project, which provides information, support and resources to rape and sexual abuse survivors and their friends and family.
YesICAN offers live, scheduled chats and a forum for individuals who wish to discuss issues around surviving child abuse and domestic violence, as well as discuss parenting issues. YesICAN chats are run by trained facilitators and cover various subjects including teen survivors, male survivors, female survivors, physical abuse, emotional abuse, sexual abuse, incest survivors, significant others and parenting.

When accessing hotlines, chats or forums from a computer, tablet, or smartphone, please remember to take the necessary precautions to keep your activities confidential from your abuser. Learn more on protecting personal affects and technology here.

Also, keep in mind that local shelters may offer in-person support groups. You can find nearby shelters at domesticshelters.org.
If you’re struggling to understand the behavior of your partner you can connect for free with a domestic violence advocate for support and advice.

Visit domesticshelters.org and type either your city and state or ZIP code into the search bar at the top of the page. A list of organizations and contact numbers near you will be displayed. To reach an advocate, call the hotline numbers listed. Most are open 24/7.

To speak to an advocate at the National Domestic Violence Hotline, also available 24 hours a day, seven days a week, call 1-800-799-7233 or visit thehotline.org where a chat service is available 7 a.m. to 2 a.m.

It’s important to know that your call stays confidential and you can always choose to remain anonymous when speaking with an advocate. To know what to expect when calling, read this article.